PHIL 251 03H 11272
Special Honors-Only Section: Ethics - Studies theories about human conduct which bear upon the rightness and wrongness of actions, and the goodness and badness of ends, including the nature, scope, purposes, and varieties of moral and ethical theories. Open to Pennoni Honors College undergraduates.

Times and Instructor:
- MW 15:30 - 16:50
- Andrew Smith

PPE 101 001 15399
Introduction to Philosophy, Politics and Economics - This course introduces the interdisciplinary major Philosophy, Politics and Economics in two ways: it examines ways of thinking, speaking and researching in each of the three component disciplines, and it applies these overlapping approaches to a set of complex real-world problems. Open to all undergraduates.

Times and Instructor:
- MW 12:30 - 13:50
- Peter Amato

PHIL 101 001 13473
Introduction to Western Philosophy - Introduces the main methods and aims of Western Philosophy, involving the study of problems central to metaphysics, theory of knowledge, and ethics. Open to all undergraduates.

Times and Instructor:
- MWF 15:00 - 15:50
- Amy Bush

PHIL 101 003 11462
Introduction to Western Philosophy - Introduces the main methods and aims of Western Philosophy, involving the study of problems central to metaphysics, theory of knowledge, and ethics. Open to all undergraduates.

Times and Instructor:
- TR 12:30 - 13:50
- Jacques Catudal

PHIL 101 004 15461
Introduction to Western Philosophy - Introduces the main methods and aims of Western Philosophy, involving the study of problems central to metaphysics, theory of knowledge, and ethics. Open to all undergraduates.

Times and Instructor:
- MWF 11:00 - 11:50
- Amy Bush

PHIL 102 001 12531
Introduction to Eastern Philosophy - Introduction to the main topics of study in Buddhist, Hindu and other systems of Eastern thought. Open to all undergraduates.

Times and Instructor:
- MWF 10:00 - 10:50
- David Seltzer

PHIL 211 130 13474
Metaphysics: Philosophy of Reality - Studies theories about the nature of reality and issues such as the nature of time, mind, personal identity, and free will. Open to all undergraduates above freshman level with at least one 100-level PHIL class.

Times and Instructor:
- W 15:30 - 16:50
- Patrick Denehy

PHIL 212 001 13475
Plato: Early Dialogues - An introductory overview of classical Greek Philosophy presented through a reading of some early dialogues of Plato. Open to all undergraduate students. Open to all undergraduates.

Times and Instructor:
- TR 14:00 - 15:20
- Marilyn Piety

PHIL 216 001 11475
Philosophy of Time - In this course we will study problems surrounding the nature of time. We will consider, "Does time have a direction?"; "Are events pre-determined?"; "Is time travel possible?"; etc. We will discuss treatments of these issues in literature and film. Open to all undergraduates.

Times and Instructor:
- T 18:30 - 21:20
- Joseph McPeak

PHIL 241 001 13476
Social & Political Philosophy - Studies theories about human social and political life that bear on issues such as the nature and scope of justice, the legitimacy of states, and the relationship between democracy, civil rights, and civil disobedience. Open to all undergraduates.

Times and Instructor:
- MW 12:30 - 13:50
- Carol Mele

PHIL 351 001 15164
Philosophy of Technology - Studies technology from a philosophical standpoint stressing its role in shaping human existence and values, considering issues such as the control and distribution of information, housing and city planning, automation, and the uses of technology in medicine. Open to Drexel Online students above the freshman level.

Times and Instructor:
- TR 9:30 - 10:50
- Eric Fleming

PHIL 355 001 11716
Philosophy of Medicine - Examines the ideas of medicine, disease, and health from a philosophical perspective. Examines such concepts as gender, mental-illness, mind-body unity, aging and physical perfection as derived from both Eastern and Western traditions. Current health policy alternative treatment practices are also discussed. Open to undergraduates above the freshman level.

Times and Instructor:
- MW 12:30 - 13:50
- Stacey Ake

PHIL 481 001 12239
Pre-Socratic Philosophy - An in-depth seminar on themes and thinkers of the era of Greek Philosophy before Socrates, (b. 470 - d. 399 BCE). Writing intensive. Open to all undergraduates with two 200-level or higher PHIL classes.

Times and Instructor:
- TR 15:30 - 16:50
- Jacques Catudal

---

Did you know that a Major or double-Major in Philosophy makes an excellent choice for students pursuing the widest range of careers, including medicine, education, and the law? Philosophical study is not only a great way to explore the full variety of questions about life, reality, and meaning, but it will also help you develop reasoning and argumentation skills that will make you a better listener, speaker, reader, writer, and thinker. A minor or certificate in Philosophy will enhance your college experience no matter what your major is. The Philosophy Minor is only eight classes covering the main areas of the field with many options. Our certificate programs in Ethical Theory and Practice, Philosophy, Arts & Humanities and Philosophy, Science & Technology are only six courses each, also with options. For questions about Philosophy programs or classes at Drexel, contact Dr. Peter Amato, director of the Drexel Philosophy Program at peterama@drexel.edu. More information can also be found here: The Drexel Philosophy Information Page; Why Study Philosophy?